SUMMARY

Nationally ranked sales performer and certified performance coach with a career built on one discipline: understanding how people think, communicate, and decide, then using that understanding to drive results. Whether closing complex deals, developing top producers, or coaching individuals through high-stakes transitions, the work is the same: identify what's blocking performance, close the gap, and build something that lasts. Known for operating at the top of the board while simultaneously raising the people around me.

BEHAVIORAL ASSESSMENT & ORGANIZATIONAL CONSULTING

Built a practitioner methodology for assessing and developing management teams at the level where behavioral problems originate — the regulatory and relational patterns driving accountability failure, turnover, and dysfunction under pressure. Approach integrates structured behavioral assessment, individual coaching, and team facilitation into a sequenced arc designed to produce change that holds beyond the training room.

- Designed a multi-modal behavioral assessment system — structured narrative interview, multi-rater 360 instrument, and facilitated observation session — that identifies the specific regulatory and relational pattern driving each leader's behavior; produces individual profiles specific to each leader's pattern rather than a generic report.
- Built the diagnostic framework around the mechanism beneath the behavior: regulatory state, stress-response patterns, and attachment-informed relational patterns under pressure — the level standard assessment tools and management training do not reach.
- Identified implicit behavioral pattern — not skill deficit — as the primary driver of management performance failure; built intervention architecture around that diagnosis rather than curriculum delivery or competency instruction.
- Working knowledge of the neuroscience and organizational behavior research base driving implicit-level behavioral change: interpersonal neurobiology (Siegel), neurosequential development (Perry), SCARF / threat-state management (Rock), immunity to change (Kegan & Lahey), motivational interviewing (Miller & Rollnick), change readiness staging (Prochaska), psychological safety architecture (Edmondson) — applied as a coherent consulting framework.
- Developed working knowledge of the organizational development practitioner landscape — what established programs deliver and where they stop short — through sustained research and active leadership engagement with the OD professional community, including ASTD Nebraska and the Organizational Development Network.

PERFORMANCE COACHING & HUMAN DEVELOPMENT

Certified professional coach (CPCC) with deep training in human behavior, identity formation, and performance psychology. Worked with executives, entrepreneurs, and high-achievers navigating career transitions, leadership development, and sustained performance under pressure.

- Designed and delivered individualized coaching engagements focused on identifying and dismantling the cognitive and behavioral patterns that limit performance.
- Guided clients through high-stakes decisions, including career pivots, leadership transitions, and business launches, using structured frameworks grounded in motivation science, values clarification, and behavioral change methodology.
- Developed original coaching frameworks and session tools built around psychology, behavioral change methodology, and deliberate skill sequencing.
- Trained and practiced deep listening as a foundation for effective coaching, able to surface the real issue beneath the stated problem and teach others to do the same.

LEADERSHIP COMMUNICATION & INFLUENCE

Treat communication as a precision discipline, not a soft skill. Studied and applied personality typology, adaptive messaging, and influence psychology across sales, coaching, training, and organizational leadership contexts, treating personal development in this area as a long-term, deliberate practice rather than a baseline to reach and stop at.

- Tracked personal performance beyond standard company metrics: maintained a 12.12% average of calls earning perfect scores across all satisfaction dimensions in 2025, against a company average of 4.37%, with a quarterly peak of 14%. Recognized by management as having the highest relational and emotional intelligence of any hire.
- Leveraged adaptive communication to drive university fund revenue growth of 50–100% annually, well above the 5% industry average.
- Built trusted relationships with high-net-worth individuals, senior executives, and key decision-makers, grounded in credibility and long-term value, not transactional rapport.
- Trained others in the mechanics of skilled listening, clear message structure, and audience-matched delivery; able to diagnose and coach communication breakdowns in real time.
- Demonstrated the ability to shift team dynamics through facilitation rather than persuasion, moving a siloed senior team to peer-driven collaboration by asking the right questions instead of presenting the right argument, resulting in a 40% reduction in specialist escalations and a measurable drop in average handle time within 90 days.

SALES PERFORMANCE & REVENUE GROWTH

Nationally ranked closer with a career built on consultative selling, disciplined pipeline management, and the ability to earn trust in complex, high-stakes sales environments. Consistent top-of-the-board producer across multiple industries.

- Ranked #13 nationally with a 48.6% closing ratio, well above national averages.
- Generated revenue at a 3:1 ratio versus peers; personal production accounted for roughly 50% of total local market sales.
- Built and managed a portfolio of 23 annual contracts valued at $50K–$100K each, averaging 300–600% above standard deal size.
- At FOX 42, generated $650,000 in local advertising revenue representing the market's 4th-ranked station, competing on consultative partnership rather than ratings reach.
- Named Marketing Specialist of the Month multiple times for highest new revenue and largest budget-over-budget growth in B2B advertising sales.
- Inducted into the Top Tier Achievers Club. President's Club Award winner for Leadership and Client Satisfaction.
- Consistently closed by going looking for objections rather than avoiding them, treating resistance as an unanswered question and addressing it directly before asking for the business.

TRAINING & TEAM DEVELOPMENT

Selected by senior leadership to replicate top-tier performance across new hires, a pattern that has repeated across multiple organizations. Build training systems from scratch, grounded in what actually produces results rather than what looks good in a manual.

- Appointed Sales Onboarding Trainer after ranking #1 in sales volume; chosen specifically to close the gap between average and elite production.
- Identified that the core barrier to onboarding success was identity, not skill, and built the training framework around that gap first, before sequencing technical competencies.
- Designed the department's first comprehensive training curriculum: deliberate skill sequencing, psychology-based selling methodologies, compliance requirements, and advanced client service standards.
- Across three cohorts of 75 new hires, associates trained under this program averaged 30% more calls scoring at 100% client satisfaction compared to all prior classes. The module was adopted as a departmental standard and ran for four additional classes after delivery.
- Reps developed through this program went on to close contracts up to 10x the standard deal size.

MARKETING & GROWTH STRATEGY

Hands-on experience across brand strategy, multi-channel campaign development, and revenue-generating marketing initiatives. Advise from both the strategic and executional level, able to connect positioning decisions to measurable business outcomes.

- Repositioned brand strategies for 40+ small businesses, generating average annual revenue gains of 30% and more than doubling sales for growth-ready clients.
- Directed revenue initiatives responsible for 60% of annual fundraising income; increased direct mail returns by 15% (3x industry average) while reducing pledge receivables by 30%.
- Managed multi-channel advertising territories across TV, digital, and direct response; held client campaigns accountable to real ROI, not impressions.
- Advised small businesses on digital presence, website architecture, consumer psychology, and competitive positioning.
- Experience across direct mail, print, TV, radio, social media, short-form video, and web marketing.
